Scenes from campus

- Two students shop for jewelry between classes.
- Elsewhere, a student has a leisurely lunch with a textbook.
- Another student makes sure not a spot of makeup is out of place.
- Meanwhile, someone is more concerned with the grade on his upcoming midterm exam.
- In the food court, classmates debate how to spend their weekend.
- A swimmer is spending her day getting closer to nature.

All of these things happen every day at California State University, Fullerton. All of these people are you, your best friend or the stranger who caught your eye from a distance and you never saw again. These pictures and this book are about all of us, alumni and soon-to-be alumni, and what we did while we were here.

All the old familiar places.

OPENING NEW DOORS

So much to learn, so little time...

Whether it is math, English, anthropology or engineering, the classroom is definitely the place to learn. It is in these rooms that we learn what a hyperbole is and why the square root of 100 is always 10. Often times we enter a classroom with no idea of the subject matter at hand and walk away from that same class with a better understanding of why knowledge is power.

When class is out

Everybody knows that "learning is preeminent" at Cal State Fullerton, but not all learning takes place in a classroom. Sitting at a desk all day would drive anybody crazy.

That is why getting out of the classroom and doing other things is important. Talking with friends during a break between classes, listening to tunes at the weekly concerts or catching up on homework are all integral parts of campus living. Passing the tests of life can be just as important as a history or math test, and the only way to study for life's tests is to have a life.

-N.O.

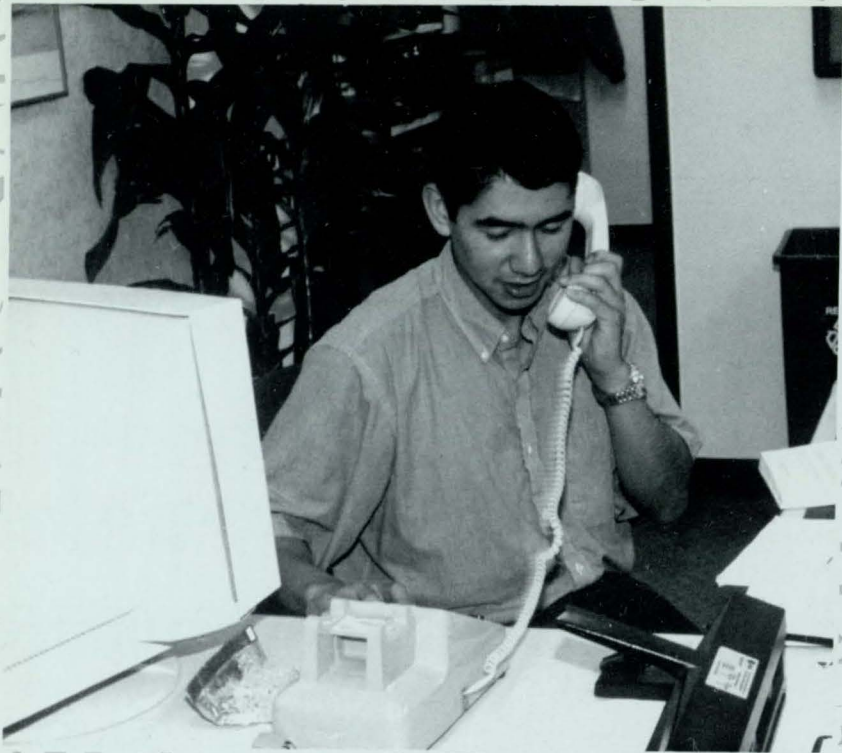

OPENING NEW DOORS

Paying the Bills

"Starving student" may be a cliché, but it holds true. To many students, it seems that life consists of two things; school and work. No matter what a person does, money from the job never seems to stretch far enough.

Cal State Fullerton employs over 600 students. From Athletics to the University Center, the opportunities to help the university and earn extra money in the mean time are endless. Juggling school, a social life and a job is sometimes difficult. Many students agree that they often times feel overextended.

Alumni Relations, student assistant, Carey Serrano summed it up by saying: "The experience is great and knowing the end results makes it all seem worth it!"

Recess

Time spent working and learning often provides a stark contrast to the precious time spent playing. Since striving for a higher education can be exhausting, time to relax and unwind is always well deserved. Whether it consists of blowing up asteroids in the arcade or participating in intramural sports, play time is the best time.

Titan Athletics CHEER SQUAD

Participating in sports at the college level is a dream come true for every athlete who hopes of being a Heisman Trophy winner, an All-American or an MVP.

College athletes are different than professional or recreational athletes because they understand that sports are no longer just fun and games and they know their only compensation will be personal satisfaction. A collegiate athlete understands that hard work opens doors to a professional career. College sports are truly about dedication and the love for the game.

Before the summer of 1994 the Cal State Fullerton Cheer Squad was not very active. Despite little financial support from the university, members of the squad have performed well and represented CSUF to the best of their abilities.

Each year the squad travels to different cities to compete in a national tournament. Previous tournaments have produced outstanding results for the Titan team. In 1995 the cheer squad placed 7th in Dallas and the next year in Daytona the squad finished 9th. Other accomplishments include a first place finish in dance/cheer at the 1994 Cheerleading Camp. Members of the squad feel that their unity helps to form strong friendships and deliver strong performances.

VOLLEYBALL

Fall 1996 was a season of firsts for the Cal State Fullerton women's volleyball team. They established a high winning percentage with a 16-13 record and won a school record six conference games. The team narrowly missed a trip to the Big West championship, despite being one of the top teams in this very tough conference.

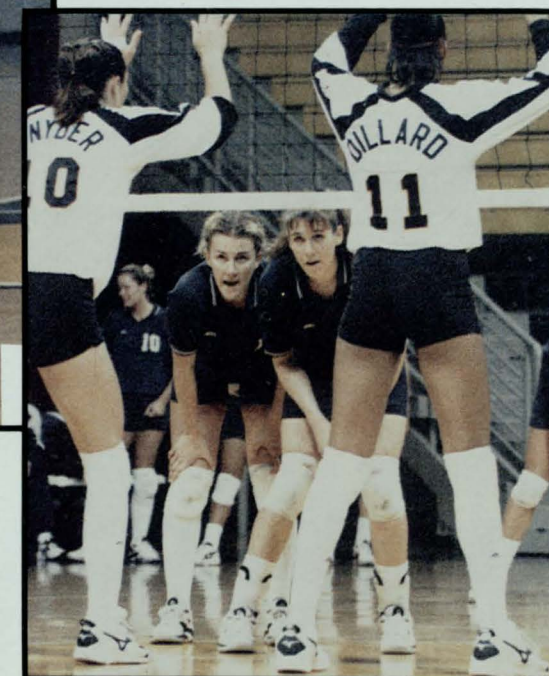

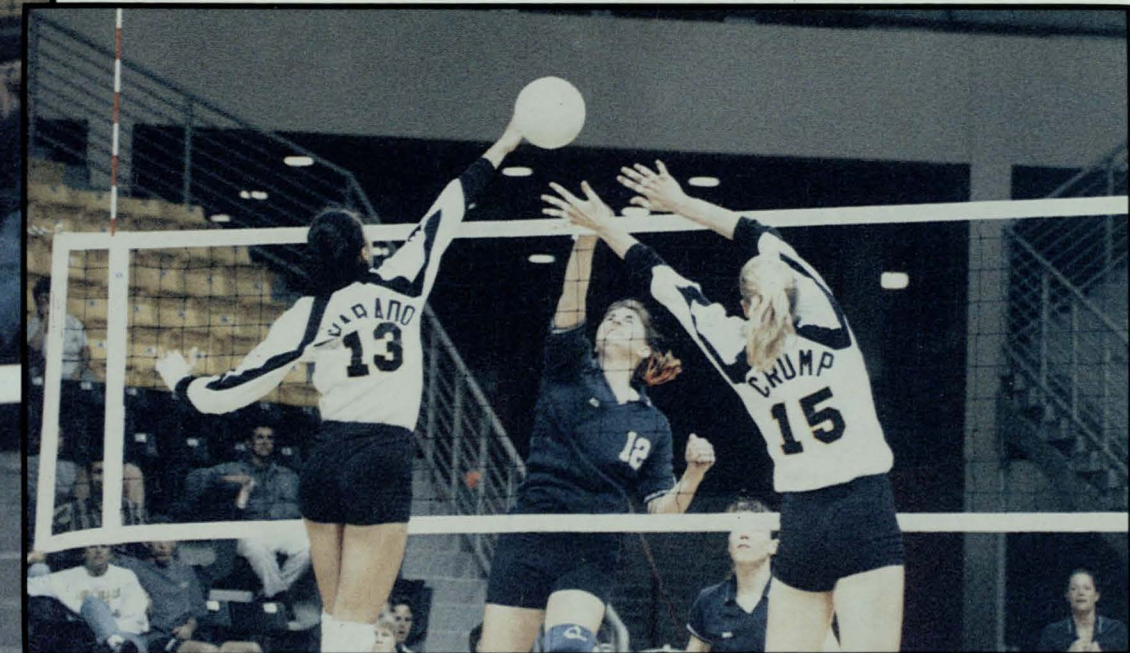

"This team worked really hard all year," Coach Murchison said. "They were committed to turning this program around, and they did."

Senior outside hitter Heather Bassett was named to the all-conference first team, leading the Big West with 4.58 kills per game and finishing second with 3.12 digs per game.

Five players finished their Titan careers in 1996: Bassett, Shelly Smith, Heather Humphreys, Jennifer Adeva and Jennifer Erickson.

The Titans will have six returning players in 1997, including setter Melissa Blackler, middle blocker Stephanie Cargill, and outside hitter LaCretia Smith. This year's success will help make recruiting top players easier and the resurgence of the volleyball team should continue into the future.

SOCCER

Whoever feels that fall sports are uneventful because there is no football program, hasn't experienced the excitement of Cal State Fullerton soccer.

Once again the men's soccer team finished another spectacular year. An early season victory over national champs Wisconsin and a 2-2 tie against No. 1 Virginia helped Fullerton to achieve a No. 2 national ranking, the highest in the program's history.

"This season fulfilled all of our pre-season expectations," says head coach Al Mistri, who is in his 17th year. "The team came together and we set a record with the fewest losses in a season."

They finished the season with a 11-4-5 record, and gained a NCAA bid. The first round game matched the Titans up against the top-ranked UCLA Bruins. So Tom Helmer broke a 1-1 tie as the Titans advanced with an incredible 2-1 victory. The season came to an end in the second round, with a heartbreaking 4-2 penalty kick loss to Creighton.

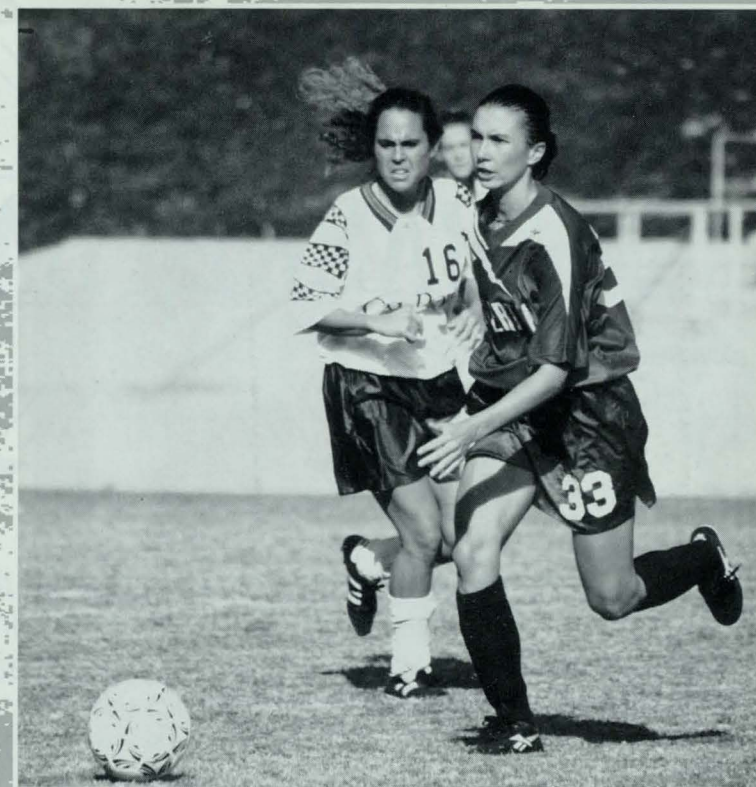

Junior transfer, Sheldon Thomas lead the Titans with 17 goals and earned national recognition as a second team all-American. Other top players were sophomores, Brian Dunseth and Joey DiGiamarino who will both play with the U.S. national team in the spring.

The 1996 season saw the women's team take another giant leap towards national recognition. By winning their section of the Big West Conference, the women not only played in but hosted the first ever Big West Conference Tournament.

Although they did not win the tournament Coach Mistri considered it a success. "The tournament, due to its great attendance and the money it brought in, was success," he said. "This will ensure that this will become an established tournament and source of recognition."

The Lady Titans compiled an impressive 13-6-2 record this season. The team was led once again by the goals of Dolores Browning (17) and the dominant goaltending of senior Suzy Strazulla.

For the 1997 season Mistri expects to have the best recruiting year in a long time. Early predictions are that 7 top players will join the men and 4 for the women.

BASKETBALL

For both the men's and women's basketball teams the 1996-97 season featured impressive wins and improved records at the beginning. The end results, however, may not have been what either team hoped for.

The men's team opened the season with three incredible road wins, the first being a 75-67 victory over Brigham Young and the next two being narrow wins over Montana and Loyola Marymount. After jumping to a 9-6 record the Titans suffered their worst loss of the season when leading scorer and rebounder John Williams fractured a bone in his right wrist. The Titans won four of their remaining games to finish with a 13-14 record.

Coach Bob Hawking believes that this season was a "major step forward" and is convinced that next year's team will be even better. Already recruited and signed for next season is a 6'11 center to add to the solid play of juniors Chris Dade and Chris St. Clair and freshmen Josh Leighton and Dane Plock.

The Lady Titans experienced early season success with pre-season wins over Georgia State and Eastern Washington and bursting to a 5-1 record. Unfortunately, inexperience led to a mid-season 8-game losing streak. The Lady Titans finished with an overall record of 10-18.

The season did provide the Lady Titans with great wins over Long Beach State, the first in six years, and they ended a five year drought with a win against New Mexico State. Sophomore

Coach John Elders had high expectations at the beginning of his 9th year as head coach of the Cal State Fullerton cross country team. Unfortunately, due to the loss of the top three competitors for the men and a late season flu bug that attacked the women's team, those expectations were not completely fulfilled.

"It was an up-and-down season for the women," said Elders. "The first half of the season was great but sickness and health were big problems towards the end." The men's team suffered from lack of and experience. The pre-season loss of three major runners kept the men from finishing the top five of the Big West conference.

Through all of the hardships both teams still managed to compete well. The women finished 6th in the conference and the men finished 8th. Top runners for the women were Sara McDougall, Sonia Perez and Teresa Santana. Top runners for the men were Luis and Stuart Gonzalez.

Elders expects good recruiting and three full-ride scholarships for the men and five for the women to help solidify the team. "With the right amount of scholarship money and recruits, we can dominate the Big West next year and every year," Elders said confidently.

FENCING

Hidden away and secluded on the top floor of the gymnasium, Coach Heizabura Okawa and his Cal State Fullerton fencing team may possibly be the schools best kept secret.

Although on campus the fencing team is out of the public eye, the rest of the Big West conference can't help but notice them. This past season the men's team finished first in overall competition and the women finished the season second overall.

The men's fencing team features such outstanding individuals as Brian Clawson, who was the top epee fencer in the conference and finished 15th at the national championships, and Renato Gates, who competed and placed first in the conference in the foil division and 24th at the national championships. The women's team also produced talented individuals like Karen Lieu, who finished first in the conference in the foil division but was unable to compete for the national title because of one loss, the only blemish on her record.

Coach Okawa did not expect such good results out of a team that doesn't have the benefit of scholarships and relies on talent of first-time fencers and coaching ability. Everyone on the team is a walk-on and many team members join after an enjoyable experience in the fencing class. Coach Okawa is confident that he can teach people how to become good fencers as long as they have the drive and dedication.

Titan baseball struggled somewhat this season, but held its own against such top as teams Stanford, University of Arizona and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo. The Titans won seven of their first nine in a pre-season schedule that included five nationally ranked teams.

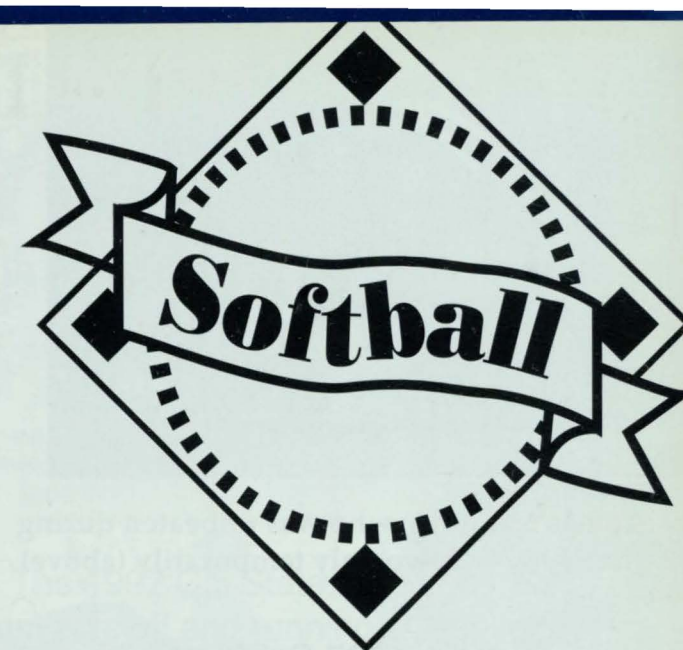

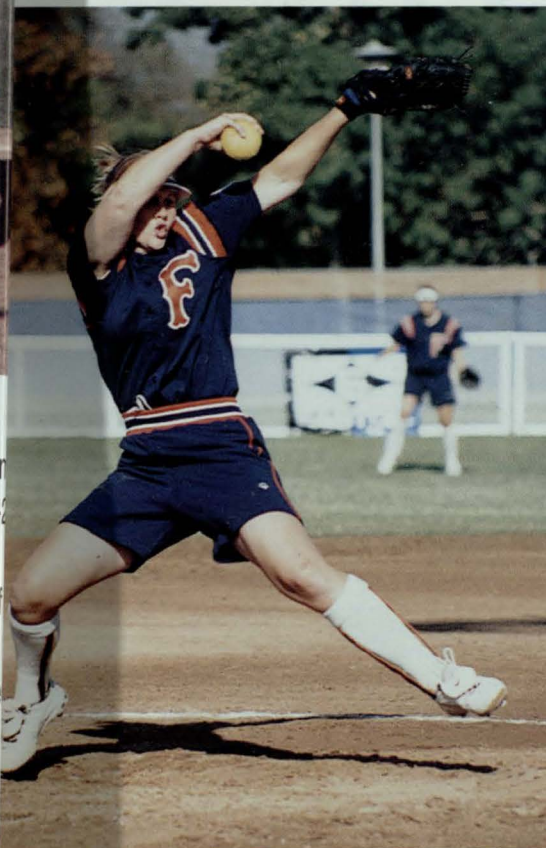

Cal State Fullerton opened the season against Stanford, taking two out of three from the Cardinal. In the subsequent series, CSUF swept Arizona, outscoring the Wildcats 5-2 at Tucson.

The Titans opened Big West Conference play at Long Beach State, dropping two of three to the 49ers, but they bounced back to sweep San Luis Obispo a week later. In the middle of the season, the Titans hosted the Anaheim Angels at Titan Field for a fund-raiser that offered CSUF players a thrilling experience to play with the big-leaguers.

After a rocky start, the Cal State Fullerton softball team is getting into the swing of things mid-way through the season. The team started off losing five of the first seven games and turning in a disappointing performance at the Tournament of Champions, where they lost four straight games. The team did, however, strike back and provide a glimpse of the future when they hosted the Pony Invitational. The team had impressive wins over Georgia State, USL and Florida.

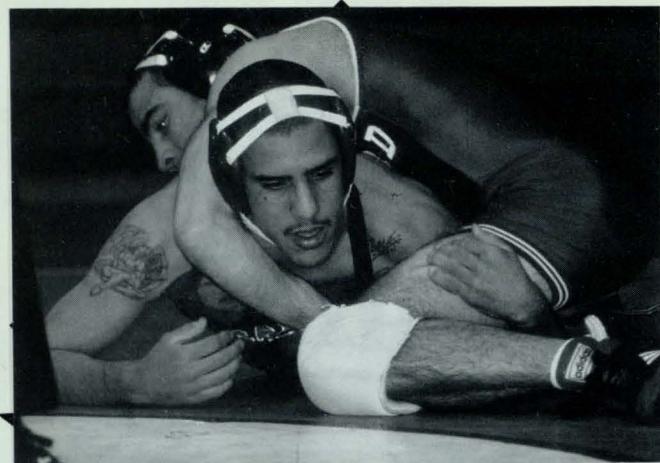

While students celebrated their spring break, the softball team was hard at work. Over the break the team found their form, posting a 5-1 record against number 28 Tennessee, number 10 Long Beach State and UC Santa Barbara. The team then stood poised and ready to take a shot at conference-leading New Mexico State.

Led by the strong arms of pitchers Jana Oetgen and Donna Coombes and the solid hitting of Dara Marzolo, Rachel Olvera and Niki Hart, the Titans appeared well prepared to put together a good finish to the 1997 season. The team will try to gain ground in the conference to earn an opportunity to participate in post-season play.

For the 1997 Cal State Fullerton wrestling team, this year's season was focused on gaining experience and rebuilding for next year.

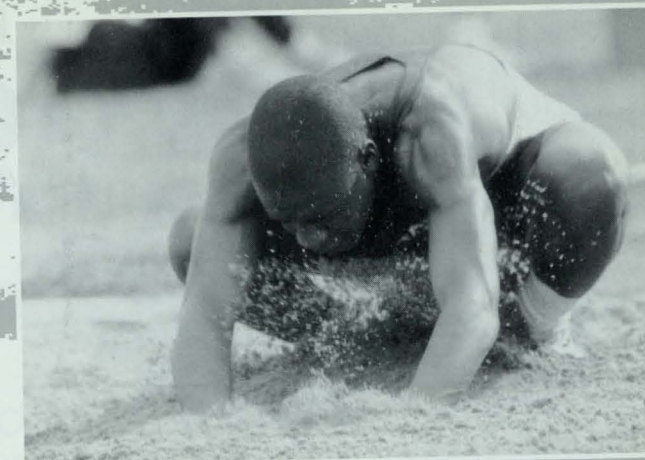

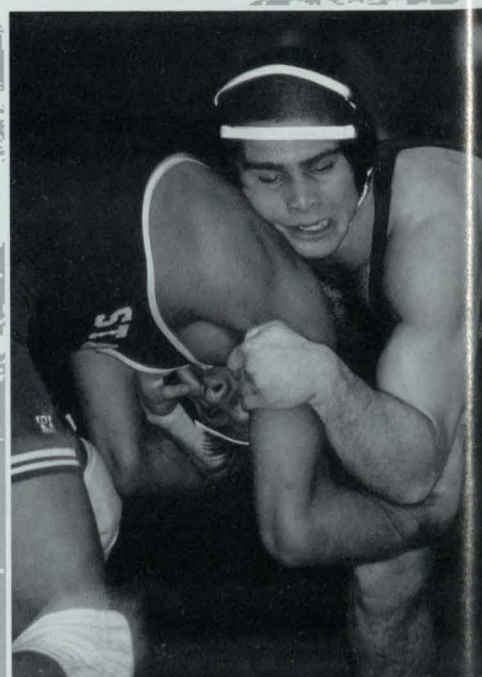

A limited budget and the transfer of a top returner, hampered the team's overall outcome. Although the team struggled through the Pac-10 and was unable to win a dual meet, the season did however provide some individual highlights. Orlando deCastroverde as well as Steve Duran were both NCAA qualifiers.

Head coach Ardeshir Asgari in his fifth year feels that although the team's goals were not met, that many individuals performed well. Asgari is confident that good recruiting will provide the team with the talent they need to compete in the Pac-10.

Off the mats, the wrestling team continued its academic excellence. The team was once again ranked amongst the top in cumulative grade point averages.

Orlando deCastroverde (above) and Steve Duran (right) prove that they were worthy of being recognized as 2 of Cal State Fullerton's best wrestlers.

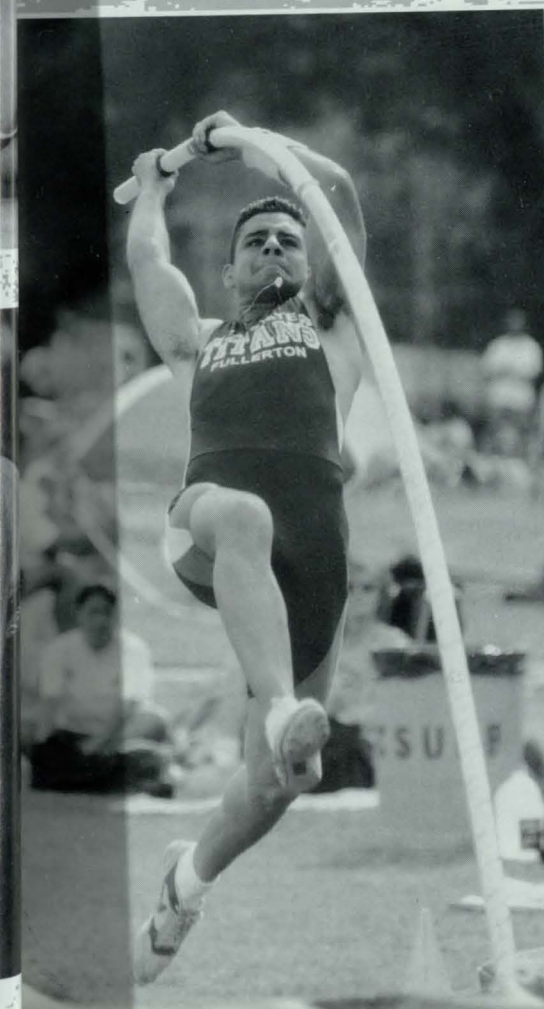

The 1997 Cal State Fullerton track team was off and running. Despite the ups and downs associated with long track season, coach John Elders was confident that his team would be ready for the Big West Conference meet held May 23-24.

The team performed well in a number of invitational meets. Early in the season the team traveled north to the Stanford Invite where the distance team competed very well. Not to be outdone the sprint team had their first meet of the season at the Mid West Challenge Invitational. Obi Obadike won the 100 meters and in the 200 meter, after pulling out to commanding lead, suffered a pulled hamstring muscle. Coach Elders feels that despite nagging injuries his team was consistently improving, as evidenced by the increasing number of personal records being set. Elder had confidence in the distant teams pulling through and was very excited about the potential of the women's 4x400 relay team.

Top athletes were Sara McDougal and Sonia Perez in the 5000m, Krsytal Harris and Takiesha McNeill in the 400m and Zaylor Stout in the triple jump and high jump.

Injuries kept Titan runners from leading the pack most of the season (right). Despite intense setbacks and competition, the Titan track team always kept its sights aimed high (left).

Tennis

The Titan women's tennis team was having a rough year as of late April, suffering a 6-14 record. They were winless against their Big West Conference competition on the season to that point, posting a dismal 0-4 record.

The Titans fared quite well however in doubles as No. 1 doubles team members senior Jennifer Canfield and junior Debbie Vonusa dominated in most of their matches throughout the Spring 1997 season. The duo earned a 15-5 record in their doubles matches, creating a brilliant mark on what was, overall, a markless team.

The team started the season with two seniors, Canfield and Denise Wilson, but lost Wilson half-way through due to "personal problems." Canfield, however, hung in and, along with others, helped the team hold its own in tough matches.

Vonusa, too, assisted in strengthening the team, but unfortunately the competition proved to be too much for most of the season.

A few freshman showed their strengths as well and, as a result, the future of the tennis team looks bright.

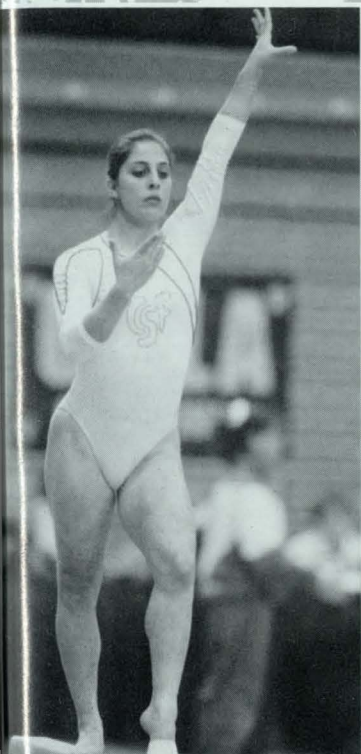

Coach Lynn Rogers had high expectations for his 1996-97 gymnastic team, including a conference championship and an appearance at the national meet.

The factor he did not expect was the uncommon strength of the conference competition and late season injuries.

The nemeses for this year's team were the Boise State Broncos. Cal State Fullerton was unable to score more points than Boise State in any of the three meets in which both teams appeared. The Lady Titans were at their best during the conference championships, recording their best overall score all season with a school record breaking 193.45 points. But the Broncos played the role of spoiler scoring just a few points more.

"It's pretty sad when you score a season high and break the school record and only finish third in a meet", says Rogers.

Individual performances took center stage this year. Freshman Gracie Millard developed into a good all-around gymnast. Sophomore Courtney Bogart produced a no fall season on the balance beam, most likely the most difficult event. Sophomore Katy Maty, if not for a late season knee injury, could have been the first Titan gymnast to compete in the national meet since 1995. Coach Rogers expects to bring in four to five new gymnasts next year to improve the depth of the program. Next year's team will be led by seniors Alexis Lott and Michelle Lotta, who both showed improvement this year.

Arts

Art is perhaps the purest form of expression, but it is also the most complex. It is unfiltered emotion, though its meaning often remains hidden. A creator of art has the opportunity to pour their soul into their work, giving it intense personal meaning, which may translate through to the observer or may come across as nothing more than swirls of paint or a few dance steps. Cal State Fullerton helps students open the door to expressing themselves as best suits them.

He chose the Fullerton cast to perform in Chicago over the last month of summer, overlapping with the Democratic National Convention, held August 26-29.

The entire cast, though prasiad nationwide for its performance, continued rehearsal before heading to the Windy City to perform in the New Athenaeum Theatre. Butler donated a portion of the profits from the performances to AIDS research organizations.

VISUAL ARTS

The creation story lives on within the walls of the Visual Arts building, where students mold, fire, paint, carve, even point and click into tangible form

within their heads .

This year marked the first time students had the opportunity to have their work displayed, evaluated and purchased through an on-campus show and competition. Students entered pieces in an exhibition that was on display for several weeks and was included as a stop on the bus route for the annual Night in Fullerton cultural event. Tyler Stallings, director of programs for the Huntington Beach Art Center and an important figure in the local art market, came to campus to critique students' pieces and name winners of the show. Finally, four artists' works were chosen to be purchased by the University Center and added to its collection.

Gina Karaba's blown-glass Calla Lily was one of the pieces being considered for purchase by the UC (above).

Music Arts

The Cal State Fullerton had a busy and exciting 1996-1997 school year. Perhaps the most exciting event was the trip taken by members of the Fullerton Jazz Band to Greeley, Colorado in April. The band took part in a national festival in which they played and competed with high school and college jazz bands from across the United States.

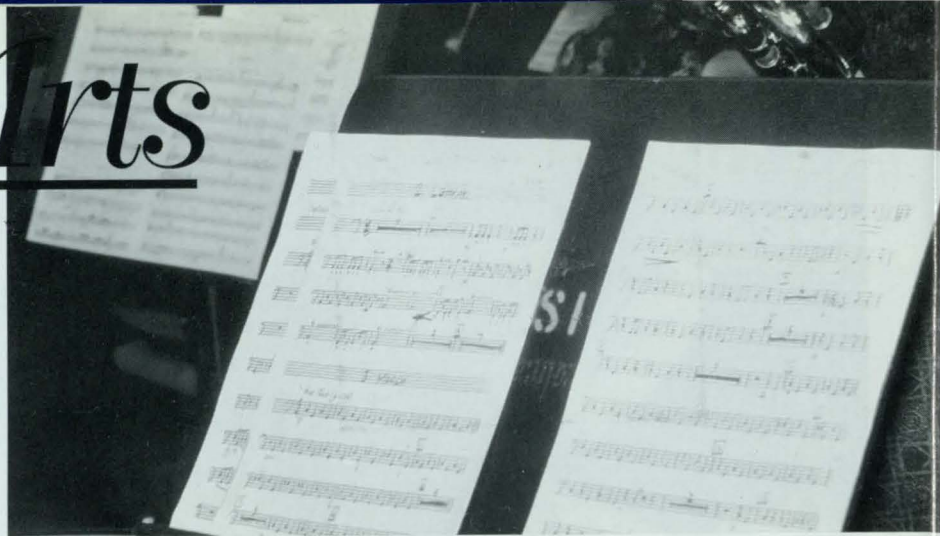

This year also saw the resurrection of the Barbershop Extravaganza and the first Percussion Ensemble Festival. The Barbershop event was put on by music fraternity Phi Mu Alpha to raise money for the Paul Woestemeyer Memorial scholarship, giving aid to Cal State Fullerton music students. The Percussion Ensemble came together on April 12 to host a workshop and performance.

The yearly Jazz Un-Festival, in which young musicians perform and have their work critiqued, was held March 22, and the Wind Ensemble put on a performance May 16. Next year, the music department will put on its first Men's Chorus Festival and some CSUF musicians will have the honor of being the only Americans invited to take part in a workshop in Japan.

Music students hold their dress rehearsal for the Wind Ensemble concert, held May 16, 1997 (all).

Greek Week

Greek Week, the biggest event for the Greek community, takes place every spring when all of the university's fraternities and sororities come together to compete with and against one another.

The week is filled with events such as chariot races, a lip sync contest and the pyramid. This year's winners for overall competition were Alpha Delta Pi and Sigma Pi.

Greek Week is designed to celebrate and have fun, but the ultimate goal is to raise money for Camp Titan, providing underprivileged kids with an opportunity to leave the problems of the inner-city behind and learn about nature.

University Events

The most exciting and anticipated things about university life are the events. Attending class, taking mid-terms or writing reports are the reasons we have to go to school. Special events are the reason we want to come to school.

This year's events included guest speakers Micheal Eisner and Spike Lee as well as yearly celebrations like Greek Week and Springfest. Let's not forget events that helped open doors to the future like Communications Week and Commencement. With all of these different events students have many opportunities to get involved with school. They are, after all, what make school fun.

Welcome Week

Building off the theme "The Adventure Continues. . .", Cal State Fullerton spent the first two weeks of each semester welcoming students to the campus. Sponsored by the Office of Student Life, Welcome Week actually consisted of two weeks in September and two more in February during which students were overwhelmed with information about opportunities for learning and fun available on and off campus.

Spring of this year marked the first time Welcome Week's most visible events, ClubFest and DiscoverFest, merged into one huge two-day festivity. Hundreds of students filled the Quad, milling over tables of information about everything from the Greek system to the Catholic Newman Club, from the Discovering Your University Center table to the free tacos courtesy of the Off-Campus Pub. Everyone who came walked away knowing more about what Cal State Fullerton has to offer.

Springfest

After a long week of events during Greek Week and preceding the Alumni Relations' Night of the Pachyderm, what could be better than a celebration? Spring-Fest a third year event was designed to bring closure to Greek Week and welcome back alumni before watching the Cal State Fullerton Baseball team take on New Mexico state.

Spring-Fest was held April 19 in parking lot A. The event was sponsored by the Student Alumni Association. Some of the activities that people could participate in included a dunk tank and relay races. Food was provided by Off Campus Pub and a beer garden was set up for beverages. Local radio station KEZY was on hand to supply music and entertainment for over 300 guests.

Communications Week

The 19th Annual Communication Week, "Plug into the World" gave Cal State Fullerton students a chance to learn from the pros. The School of Communications provided guest speakers with backgrounds in the areas of PR/advertising, television/film and radio to discuss experiences and unique situations they encounter in their field. Other Communication Week activities included workshops that addressed a variety of business skills in addition to a special "Meet the Business Day", where businesses and corporations were on campus to provide information and possible employment opportunities in their field.

The purpose of Communications Week is to provide communications students with a forum for networking and gaining exposure to information and knowledge that only business professionals can provide. Dr. Rick D. Pullen, Dean of the School of Communications believes that Communications Week is positive experience for students. "The strength of the week is the interaction between the students and the professionals. It is a great opportunity for students to ask questions and gain a better understanding of what to expect in their fields of work," says Pullen. Some guest speakers in attendance were news reporter Stan Chambers, weather man Christopher Nance, CEO's of major companies and movie directors.

Front and Center

Those shoes were filled by Michael Eisner, Walt Disney Co. Chairman and CEO. In front of 3,000 guests, Eisner spoke of the new "Disney's California Adventure" theme park and other resort expansions estimated to create 14,500 jobs and generate $25 million in new yearly revenue for the city of Anaheim. Eisner also took the time to acknowledge Cal State Fullerton students, saying, "Thousands, really thousands of our cast members are students from Cal State Fullerton."

Over $250,000 was raised by the event to help fund scholarships.

Larry Zucker, Associate Vice President for University Advancement explains, "The advantage of having Eisner and Powell and next year (Walter) Cronkite is that we can get any speaker in the world to consider our offer because they know it's a legitimate event."

New Library Opening

Cal State Fullerton's commitment to keep up with the technological demands of the 21st century has been affirmed with the opening of the new Library-North.

"Our success depends on the proper education of everyone who expects to acquire and apply these high-technology applications, as well as on state-of-the-art equipment," says university president Dr. Milton A. Gordon. "University Library-North will give us the opportunity to meet the information needs of our faculty and students more effectively."

University Library-North facilitates integrated and expanded access to in-house electronic information through the Internet. Study space is increased from 650 to over 3,000 reading stations. The new four-story building almost doubles the size of the existing library. Both wings are connected by a three-story high, glass and blue-steel atrium with east and west entries.

Clubs

Every student at Cal State Fullerton has a different idea of what school has to offer, from receiving a higher education to preparing for a career of your choice. What ever the differences, the one thing every student has in common is a need to fill their free time. When all of the studying and test taking is done, it is time to see what else school has to offer. In this next section you will see some of the clubs and organizations students join to fill their time.

Cal State Fullerton has many doors to choose from. Behind each one lies something different. Behind door #1: making new friends; behind door #2: playing a club sport and; behind door #3: networking for the future. It's all offered on campus and every door has something for every person. There is more to college than cramming for tests and registering for classes. You just have to open the right doors.

Grad-Fest

The class of 1997 was aided in their graduation efforts by the induction of Grad-Fest. This one-stop shopping event provided all graduation information and apparel in one easy location.

Grad-Fest was a first time event held April 8-10 and was sponsored by the Titan Bookstore administration and Alumni Relations. In order to make the shopping hassle free, the second floor of the bookstore was reserved for the event. Graduating students were able to purchase all of their regalia, graduation announcements and class rings. Information regarding the Alumni Association, insurance programs and the Commencement ceremonies was also provided.

The idea of making shopping convenient proved to be a success due to the fact that over half of the class of '97 participated. This year's success and attendance may make Grad-Fest a school tradition.

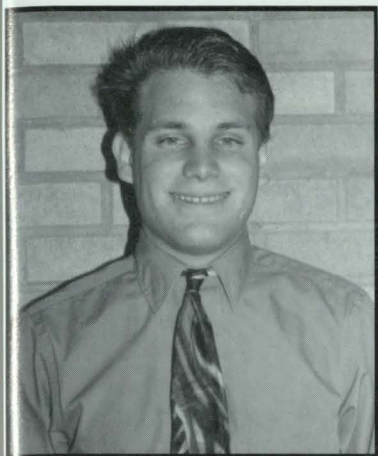

Many bookstore employees and other outside people were available to help with all of the student's questions (right).

The fees that students pay come back to them in the form of entertainment put on by Associated Students Productions, academic clubs, intercultural clubs, the Children's Center and many other programs.

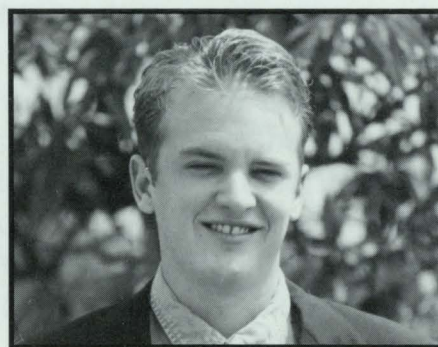

Associated Students has a motto that they adhere to: "We make things happen." A.S. funds up to $33,000 in scholarships for books as well as annual awards such as the Puzo Memorial, Richard M. Nixon and Virginia McGarvey scholarships. These scholarships are designed to assist students with the costs of their education.

The members of the Associated Students Productions (A.S.P.) since 1977 have been the people who make coming to school just a little more exciting. A.S.P. provides the campus with film presentations, concerts and special events that include performances in the Pub and guest speakers.

During the semester every Wednesday at noon in the Becker Amphitheater students can enjoy their lunch while listening to local bands perform free of charge. Some bands that A.S.P. were able to bring in this year have been One Eye Open, Los Infernos and Schleprock. The Pub and Pavilion, located inside of the University Center house live entertainment with this year's highlights being The Henry Rollins show and guest speaker Spike Lee. A.S.P. also provides quality films for students and faculty to view at the Titan theater. Movies such as Mission Impossible, Shine and Sling Blade were just a few of the pictures shown this year.

Student who participate in A.S.P. gain experience in the operations of the entertainment industry. Many members have gone on to pursue jobs in the fields of record promotions and publicity for well known groups or entertainment companies.

In 1969, a group of concerned students from Cal State Fullerton began a philanthropic program to improve community relations. The students chose as their beneficiaries the abused and underprivileged children of Orange County.

Today, Camp Titan is a program sponsored by the Associated Students, Inc., and is accredited by the American Camping Association. The staff includes 50 students who serve as both counselors and friends.

For one week in the month of June, Camp Titan provides activities for the 150 campers that are designed to help establish self-esteem and introduce them to nature. These activities include a nature and craft program and outdoor events like hiking, swimming and canoeing.

The overall benefits are positive and long-lasting for the children as well as the counselors.

Student Alumni Association

The Student Alumni Association has been on campus for over a decade and for many students it has been a great way to make friends and network with alumni.

The Student Alumni Association plays a major role in sponsoring and volunteering at campus events such as the Concert Under the Stars, Night of the Pachyderm and Springfest. This year, S.A.A. collected over 200 gifts for Orange County children with their campus wide philanthropy, Operation Santa Claus. Another way S.A.A. got involved, was at the Alumni Appreciation Basketball Game. Members donated and handed out 400 bags of peanuts to returning alumni at the February game.

President's Scholars

The 1997 school year marked the 18th year of the President's Scholar program. Each year at least ten outstanding high school seniors are chosen to become President's Scholars based on their academic record. This year, fifteen lucky students received the award bringing their total number to 50 scholars.

As a group, the scholars form an important part of the university and surrounding community. The scholars attend many social events such as the annual roundup at the El Dorado Ranch where President Gordon brings together students, associates, alumni and prominent community leaders for a chance to network. Equally as important is their commitment to community service. Once each year they host a dinner at the Ronald McDonald house and in the spring host a year-end reception for the Fullerton Boys' and Girl's Club "Shoot for the Stars" tutoring program.

Intramural Sports

The Cal State Fullerton Intramural Sports Program sponsors a number of different activities and events during the academic year. Some of the sports featured during the intramural season are flag football, soccer, basketball and volleyball. All organizations or teams that enter events are competing against the others for the title "Team of the Year". Individual awards can also be achieved, the highest being the "Athlete of the Year".

This year's intramural highlight was the flag football success of Pi Kappa Phi. The fraternity won the intramural championship on campus and after winning the regional championship in San Diego earned a chance to compete for the national title. The team was flown to New Orleans compliments of Nike and although they did not win the national championship they represented Cal State Fullerton, the intramural program and Pi Kappa Phi to the best of their abilities.

Volleyball is just one of many sports that students have the opportunity to play and compete against other in through the intramural sports program (above middle). The ΠΚΦ flag intramural football team was sponsored by Nike to compete in the national championship in New Orleans (right).

Daily Titan

Student Newspaper

Four days out of the week, The Daily Titan student newspaper gives CSUF students news important to them from both the university and local community. Student journalists report not just on the daily goings-on within the confines of the campus but also gather news from places like a burning apartment complex up the freeway or Santa Ana when President Clinton visited during the 1996 campaign.

In addition to being informative, the paper provides journalism, public relations and advertising students with practical job experience before they enter the work force. The student reporters write all the stories that go into the paper and all of the advertising is solicited by a team of students. The paper has won multiple awards for overall layout and design as well as individual excellence awards for news writing and copy editing, adding to the paper's credibility and the strength of its presence on students' resumes. Many students have gone straight to work for The Los Angeles Times and the Orange County Register from their experience on The Titan.

Newman Club

The Cal State Fullerton Catholic Newman Club was established in order to build a Catholic Christian community on campus. The Newman Club strives to organize events that will bring members together for socializing, education, service and prayer.

Members of the club feel that service to others is an important way to give back to the community and fulfill their obligations to help other people. The club's major event is a semi-annual trip to Mexico to provide food, shelter and clothing to the needy. The Newman Club also sponsors a weekly mass on campus.

Ultimately, the Newman Club hopes to provide its members with a climate where they can develop friendships and share struggles, questions and joys with one another.

Life Choices

Life Choices is a student-run organization which promotes traditional family values. It is a biblically-based, non-denominational group with members from many different churches.

Life Choices is the first organization of its kind on a college campus. Since its formation at CSUF, sister groups have been established at Cal State Long Beach and Stanford University.

The group's activities include a weekly educational table on campus from which thousands of pamphlets are handed out every semester. Life Choices also features speakers and weekly videos addressing family value issues.

Kathy Bates, a member of Life Choices says, "The group hopes to save people from AIDS, the pain and embarrassment of sexual diseases and the tragedy of abortion."

Child Advocacy and Public Policy Student Association

Members of the Child Advocacy and Public Policy Student Association in only its second year of existence, feel that they have the ability to make a direct impact in the lives of children and families. The club's main goal is to advocate and make the public aware of legislation bills regarding the welfare and education of children. Dr. Ellen Junn, professor of child development at Cal State Fullerton is the founder and main adviser of CAPPSPA.

Locally, CAPPSPA is involved in many special events including the making and selling of ornaments at Christmas, with all proceeds going to the Boys and Girls Club of Santa Ana. Members also participated in the "Soup Kitchen Project" which provided Thanksgiving dinner for the homeless.

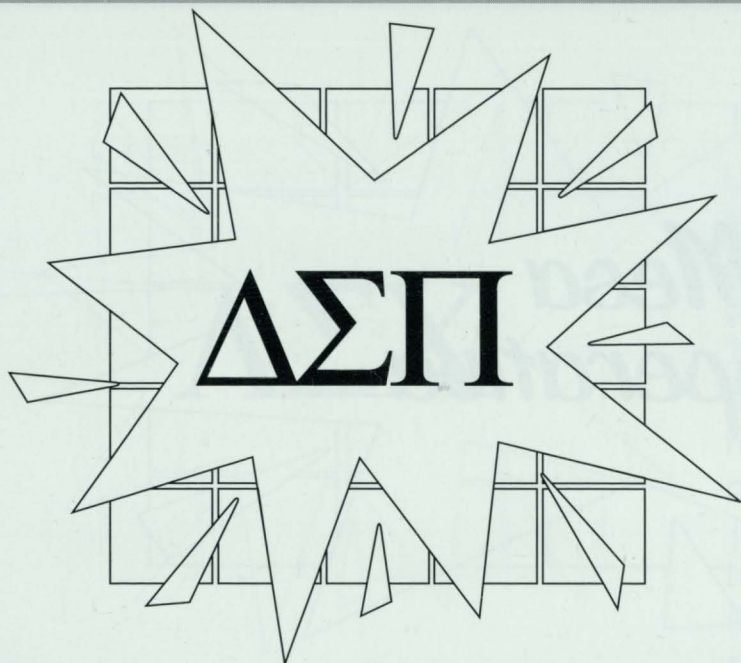

Through their letter-writing campaigns to legislators, club president Denise Quintero believes that the club really makes a difference. Quintero adds, "We get real results because we are able to go straight to the source."

Delta Sigma Pi is a co-ed professional business fraternity that has been on campus since 1986 and is a nationally affiliated organization with over 250 chapters across the nation. Open to undergraduate business majors, Delta Sigma Pi offers a number of services including networking inside the business community, finding internships, providing scholarships and hosting professional activities such as seminars and guest speakers to help students prepare for the job market. Delta Sigma Pi regularly volunteers for community service. Joining the fraternity means that students will have the opportunity to make the most out of their college experience.

Mesa Cooperativa

Mesa Cooperativa is the council which incorporates all the Chicano/Latino organizations on campus. Mesa works with each individual organization to organize events such as Chicano/Latino heritage month which involves a month-long celebration of culture and heritage. Other events include Dia De Los Padres and Cinco De Mayo festivities.

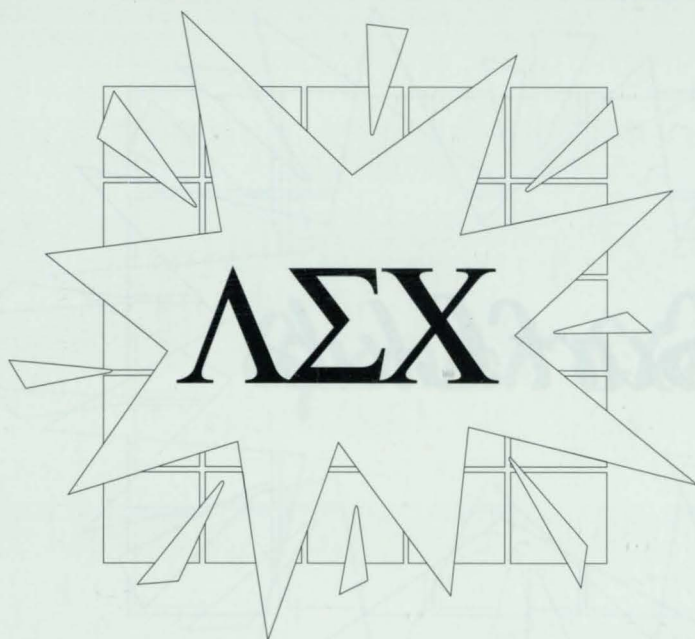

Mesa was organized to provide a meeting place for the Chicano/Latino organizations and to strengthen the unity and solidarity between them. Mesa encourages the recruitment of all Chicanos/Latinos on campus in order to help them complete their goal of graduation. Working hard together, the members of the Mesa council hope to establish a united front of all of the Chicano/Latino organizations.

Lamda Sigma Chi is a co-ed Latino fraternity which was established in 1992. They have the proud distinction of being the only fraternity of their kind on campus. The members of the fraternity embrace the sense of "familia," which helps to bring them together with a common focus.

The purpose of the fraternity is to provide Latino leadership by involving members in various leadership roles on campus. Lamda

Sigma Chi has a strong commitment to serving the community. The fraternity hosts a junior high school-age conference on campus in which students from low income areas are provided with positive role models and school experiences.

Mixing surf and turf, the Cal State Fullerton Surf Team is comfortable on either surface. For over five years members of the CSUF Surf Team have been making big waves.

The college tour for surfing is very competitive. Each member must be able to compete at the national level. This year's team had an impressive showing at the NSSA, finishing 7th out of 16 teams. The team's highest placing came at the La Jolla Shores competition where they were 4th.

Spanish Club

The Spanish Club is an academic and social organization that aims to expose its members and the campus community to the beauty and richness of the Spanish speaking culture. The club is comprised of students, faculty and staff.

The Spanish Club has been on campus for five years. Each year they sponsor or participate in events on campus to educate and involve others with the Spanish culture. This year such activities include meringue and salsa dance lessons, Spanish poetry recitals and the Dia de los Padres a school orientation for Spanish speaking students and their parents. The Spanish Club also sponsors live entertainment in the quad area during lunch such as mariachi bands and singers.

Diversity, commitment and sisterhood are just a few words to describe the nation's oldest sorority. Alpha Delta Pi was founded in 1851 at Wesleyan College in Georgia and has been at Cal State Fullerton since 1970.

The Fullerton chapter of Alpha Delta Pi has raised close to $3,000 through special events this year. The sorority holds two major fund-raising events annually: a Broom Ball competition in which all sororities participate; and the rocking chair Rock-A-Thon. All proceeds from these events go directly to the Ronald McDonald House.

This year was an award winning year for Alpha Delta Pi and its members. The sorority won best choreography and third place overall in Songfest. Alpha Delta Pi was also awarded the Panhellenic Spirit Award for attending the most philanthropic events throughout the semester.

Sigma Pi chapters all over the country this year celebrated the 100th anniversary of the founding of their fraternity. Chapters from the west coast celebrated with an awards dinner held at U.C.L.A.

Sigma Pi is associated with many service projects including the annual Easter egg hunt, co-hosted with Alpha Chi Omega sorority. In the spring the fraternity hosted their annual "World Series" softball game, in which all western region chapters spent a weekend in Fullerton to compete and raise money for their philanthropy, Multiple Sclerosis.

Outside of their service to the community and their philanthropy, members of Sigma Pi take pride in the fact that they are well rounded both academically and athletically.

OPENING NEW DOORS

Sigma Kappa was founded at Colby College in Waterville, Maine on November 9, 1874. Since their colonization here at Cal State Fullerton in 1970, Sigma Kappa has been one of the most dedicated sororities on campus.

Members of Sigma Kappa feel that close sisterhood and a strong devotion to their philanthropy are the most important aspects of their sorority. Sigma Kappa's annual "Lollipop Sale" raised over $300 this year for the fight against Alzheimer's Disease.

Sigma Kappa's devotion to the community and philanthropy does not end with their own events. The sorority also participated in Pi Kappa Phi's quarter race and Tau Kappa Epsilon's food drive for Orange County.

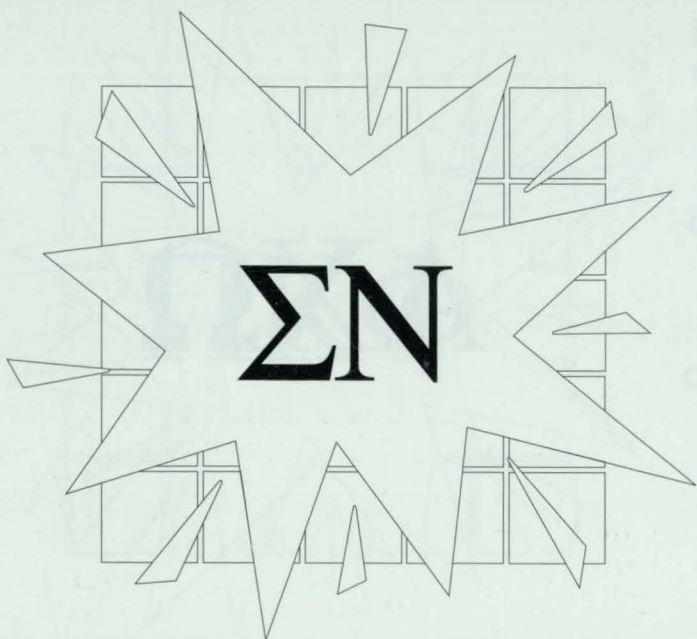

Sisters celebrate together during Bid Day (right).

Active members and alumni come together to support the Memory Walk (above).

In 1869 at Virginia Military Institute, what was called the Legion of Honor became known as Sigma Nu. Since that point in time 256 chapters have colonized throughout America. Members of Sigma Nu here at Fullerton still believe that the honor system is the key. "We try to do everything as honorably as we can. We use it as our guide," says member Kim Khauv.

Sigma Nu has dedicated itself to community service. They donate over 150 hours a semester to the adopt-a-school program. Members of the fraternity help with after school sports and serve as tutors at Kraemer Jr. High and Ruby Elementary school.

This year's National Convention was held in San Antonio, Texas, and of the current 40 active members, three were selected to attend and discuss fraternity policies and activities.

Twenty-nine years ago, Alpha Chi Omega was the first sorority to colonize at Cal State Fullerton. Since their original founding at Indiana's Depauw University in 1885, Alpha Chi Omega has maintained a tradition of excellence and dedication.

This year the sorority expressed their devotion to their philanthropy, domestic violence, by planting 100 trees to serve as a reminder of how tragic domestic violence is. Members of Alpha Chi Omega were involved with the Boxer Breakfast, an open house and breakfast for the community. Proceeds from the ticket sales went directly to helping the fight against domestic violence.

Alpha Chi Omega performed well both in and out of the classroom this year. The sorority won Songfest and earned the highest G.P.A. amongst all sororities.

Pi Kappa Phi fraternity was founded in Charleston, South Carolina in 1904. Since their colonization at Cal State Fullerton in 1990, the brothers of Pi Kappa Phi have made their mark as athletic and academic leaders.

This past year the Pi Kappa Phi flag football team won the on-campus intramural championship. That victory advanced them to the Western Regional Finals held in San Diego. After winning the Finals, Nike provided the team with an all expenses paid trip to New Orleans to play in the national tournament. Brothers of Pi Kappa Phi also excelled in the classroom as the fraternity won the award for the highest GPA among CSUF fraternities.

The fraternity also made time to volunteer over 100 hours to their philanthropy, People Understanding the Severely Handicapped (PUSH). The philanthropy was created and is maintained solely by the members of Pi Kappa Phi.

Zeta Tau Alpha was founded at Longwood College in Virginia in 1898 and at Cal State Fullerton in 1979. Even though Zeta Tau Alpha is the youngest sorority on campus, they have still played a major role in the campus community.

For over five years the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation has been Zeta Tau Alpha's national philanthropy. Every year the sorority hosts the "Bid for a Bachelor" date auction where fraternity men are offered to the highest bidder along with restaurant gift certificates and movie or theme park passes. This year's auction brought in over $2,000. An additional $450 was raised by the sale of St. Patrick's Day grams.

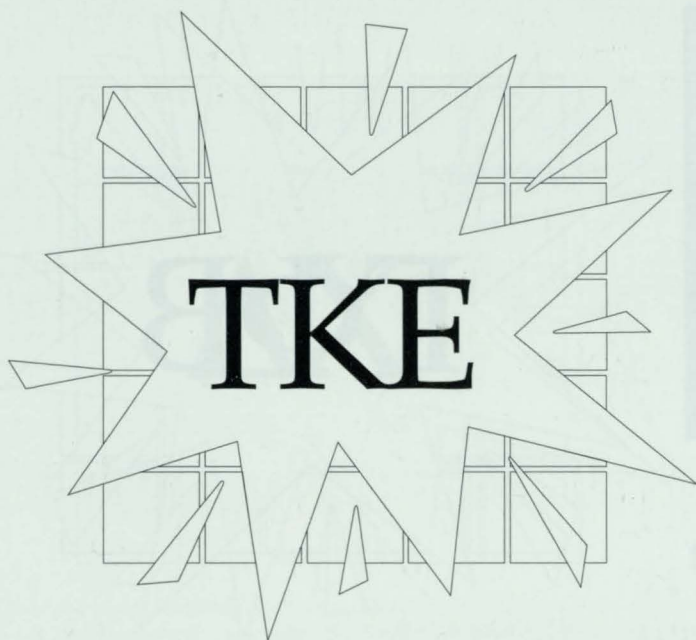

Members of ZTA are involved on campus in Associated Students, intramurals, Adopt-A-School and several other organizations.

The sisters of ZTA pose together at their White and Violet Ball (right).

Since their establishment at Cal State Fullerton on May 13, 1995, the dedicated members of Tau Kappa Epsilon have made giant leaps forward. Not only is TKE the second largest house on campus, the 48-member fraternity recently won the award for most improved chapter nationally.

Dedication to the community and their philanthropy, the Special Olympics, are very important to the members of TKE. Their annual canned food drive, which donates food throughout Orange County, was once again a success. Tau Kappa Epsilon also sponsored several fund-raisers this year, the most significant of which was a raffle in which the winner won paid tuition for one semester. Fifty percent of that fund-raiser went directly to the Special Olympics.

Other highlights of the 1996-1997 school year include winning Songfest with Alpha Chi Omega.

Founded in Syracuse, New York, in the Fall of 1874, and colonized here at Cal State Fullerton in 1971, Gamma Phi Beta has a long tradition of excellence through leadership and education.

This year service to the community was a top priority to the members of Gamma Phi Beta. Sorority sisters volunteered as judges for the Orange County High School Academic Decathlon held at Cal Poly Pomona. Gamma Phi Beta also worked in conjunction with the Chapman chapter in a major fund-raiser and a children's camp called "Camp Gamma Phi." Other activities included working with the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon to clean-up graffiti in the local area and the support of the Titan Baseball team in their game against the Angels.

Sisters of Gamma Phi Beta and their dates at a formal in November (top). Sisters welcome new members at the sorority house (above).

On June 17, 1967 Delta Chi was granted the opportunity to become an active fraternity at Cal State Fullerton. Since that time Delta Chi has provided students with great opportunities to serve the community and at the same time get the most out of campus life.

Each year members of Delta Chi work together with the Los Angeles Dodgers to raise money for Cystic Fibrosis. Other community service activities include the Multiple Sclerosis bike and walk-a-thon. Delta Chi donates their time to organize and man the rest stops for both events. Members of Delta Chi describe themselves as diverse but as a whole the fraternity considers itself a big family.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon has continued its long standing tradition nationally and here on campus as being a community serving and brotherhood oriented fraternity. President Michael Orme says, "Guys in our fraternity do things for their brothers that other fraternities just don't do."

SAE activities this year included staffing the NCAA sponsored semi-final wheelchair basketball game at Cal Poly Pomona. Brothers of SAE provided the staff, hosted the half-time laser light show and served as cheerleaders for the competing teams. The fraternity also took on local fire and police departments April 5th in a charity softball game to support the D.A.R.E. program.

There are currently 50 active SAE brothers here on campus. Orme feels that if not for the tightness of his other brothers, his college experience would not be as memorable. "It's what college life is all about," Orme concludes.

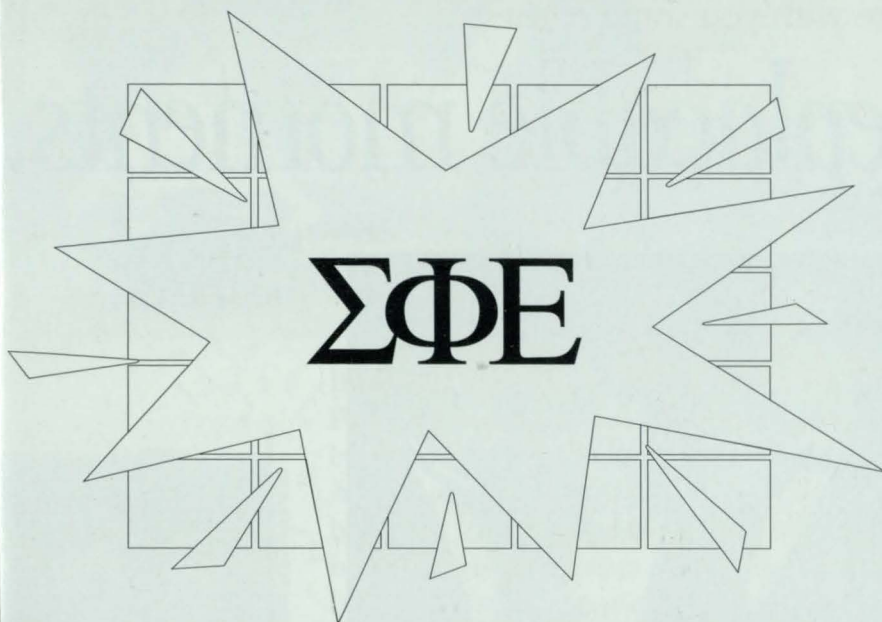

Dressed to impress, SAE brothers looking their best (above).

Founded in Virginia at Richmond College in 1901, Sigma Phi Epsilon has a long and well-known tradition for leadership and success. In November of 1994 six men decided that they wanted to be a part of great tradition and so Sigma Phi Epsilon was colonized here at Cal State Fullerton.

Members of the fraternity work hard in the areas of academics and sports. Community service is also a top priority. Their philanthropy, Project America is a program that requires members of the fraternity to go out into the community and try to make it a better place. Members also volunteer hours at the woman's shelter and for pediatric aids center.

The fraternity has over 200,000 alumni nationally.

None of us can possibly see everything that happens on campus through the course of the year. There are many events in far corners or at odd hours that few students have knowledge of or time for. So we are going to share with you some of these . . .

SPORTS YEAR

A pair of successful soccer seasons, the best volleyball record ever and a dramatic finish to the baseball season highlighted the 1996-1997 year of intercollegiate athletics at Cal State Fullerton.

Coach Al Mistri's women's soccer squad (13-6-2) posted an unbeaten record in the first year of Big West Conference competition, going 5-0-1 despite a siege of injuries that finally caught up to the Titans in the post-season tournament. Sophomore Dolores Browning was the Big West Player of the Year and was joined by Michele Rice in earning third-team All-West region honors. The men's squad (11-4-6) again gained national rankings and a spot in the NCAA playoffs. The No. 18-ranked Titans beat No. 1-ranked UCLA before tying Creighton, only to lose in an overtime shoot-out. Junior Sheldon Thomas was selected as Player of the Year in the Pacific Division of the Mountain Pacific Soccer

END WRAP-UP

Federation and earned second-team All-American honors.

Meanwhile, Coach Mary Ellen Murchison was guiding the Titan volleyball team to its best record ever at 16-13. Heather Bassett was the first Titan selected for first-team all-conference and the team just missed qualifying for the Big West post-season tournament.

A new era began in Titan baseball as George Horton replaced Augie Garrido as head coach. The Titans got off to a good start but then struggled and were only four games over .500 in mid-April. But down the stretch the Titans won 11 of their last 13 regular season games and then came out of the losers' bracket to win the Big West Conference Tournament and Championship at Long Beach, giving them an automatic berth in the NCAA Tournament. It was the team's 19th regional in 23 years but their luck ran out in the third game of the tournament as they lost to Fresno State, 8-7, and settled for a 39-24-1 season.

Sophomore gymnast Katy Maty and an improved men's basketball team captured the most headlines during the winter. Maty won the Big West Conference all-around championship and athlete of the year honors only to suffer a knee injury on the dismount of her final event. She missed the NCAA regionals but escaped the need for surgery.

The men's basketball team had an outstanding 7-3 non-conference record with rare wins at Brigham Young and Montana. The Titans had hopes of challenging for first place in the Western Division of the realigned Big West Conference standings. But the loss of top scorer and rebounder John Williams left them with an overall 13-14 record and fourth-place finish.

Cal State Fullerton was represented in NCAA championship competition by individuals from the fencing and wrestling programs. Brian Clawson placed 14th in men's epee and Renato Gates placed 24th in men's foil. Both Orlando deCastroverde at 118 pounds and Steve Duran at 158 pounds qualified for the NCAA wrestling tournament. Absent was the Titan softball team, which missed NCAA play for the first time in the program's 18-year history as the senior-less team compiled a 29-26 overall record.

DR. MILTON GORDON

CSUF President

As graduating students you have worked long and hard for this moment. You have striven for the best you could be and you have labored for knowledge and opened your minds to new ideas. You have done all of this and you have succeeded in completing your degree programs and are now ready to make your mark in your respective professions as well as meet your responsibilities to our society.

We are proud of you and your accomplishments as Cal State Fullerton's newest alumni and we are also proud that Cal State Fullerton continues to be the university where learning is preeminent. Our undergraduate and graduate programs have provided you with the best of current practice, theory and research.

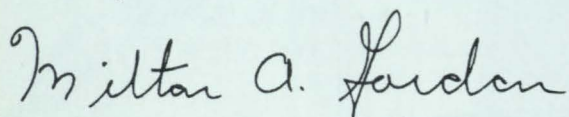

With 86 percent of our 120,000 alumni living and working in Southern California, Cal State Fullerton's greatest contribution to this region has been and will continue to be the quality of our graduate's performance in the area's business, educational, professional and governmental arenas.

We hope that your graduation from Cal State Fullerton will be the beginning of lives that are productive and satisfying for you. We hope that you will always use the knowledge that you have obtained from Cal State Fullerton for the betterment of not only your life but those of your fellow human beings. We hope that the days you have spent at Cal State Fullerton will be but the prologue for happy and fulfilling days yet to come.

Your graduation from Cal State Fullerton denotes not severance from the university but your union with it. Commencement does not mean, as many wrongly think, the breaking of ties and the beginning of life apart. Rather it marks your initiation in the fullest sense into the fellowship of Cal State Fullerton as bearers of its torch, as centers of its influence, as promoters of its spirit. Wherever you go, Cal State Fullerton goes with you. Wherever you are at work, there is Cal State Fullerton at work.

We want to encourage you to see this campus as yours, to be active alumni, discovering for yourselves the personal benefits of continued involvement with Cal State Fullerton. We wish you luck, success and much happiness to you in all your future endeavors.

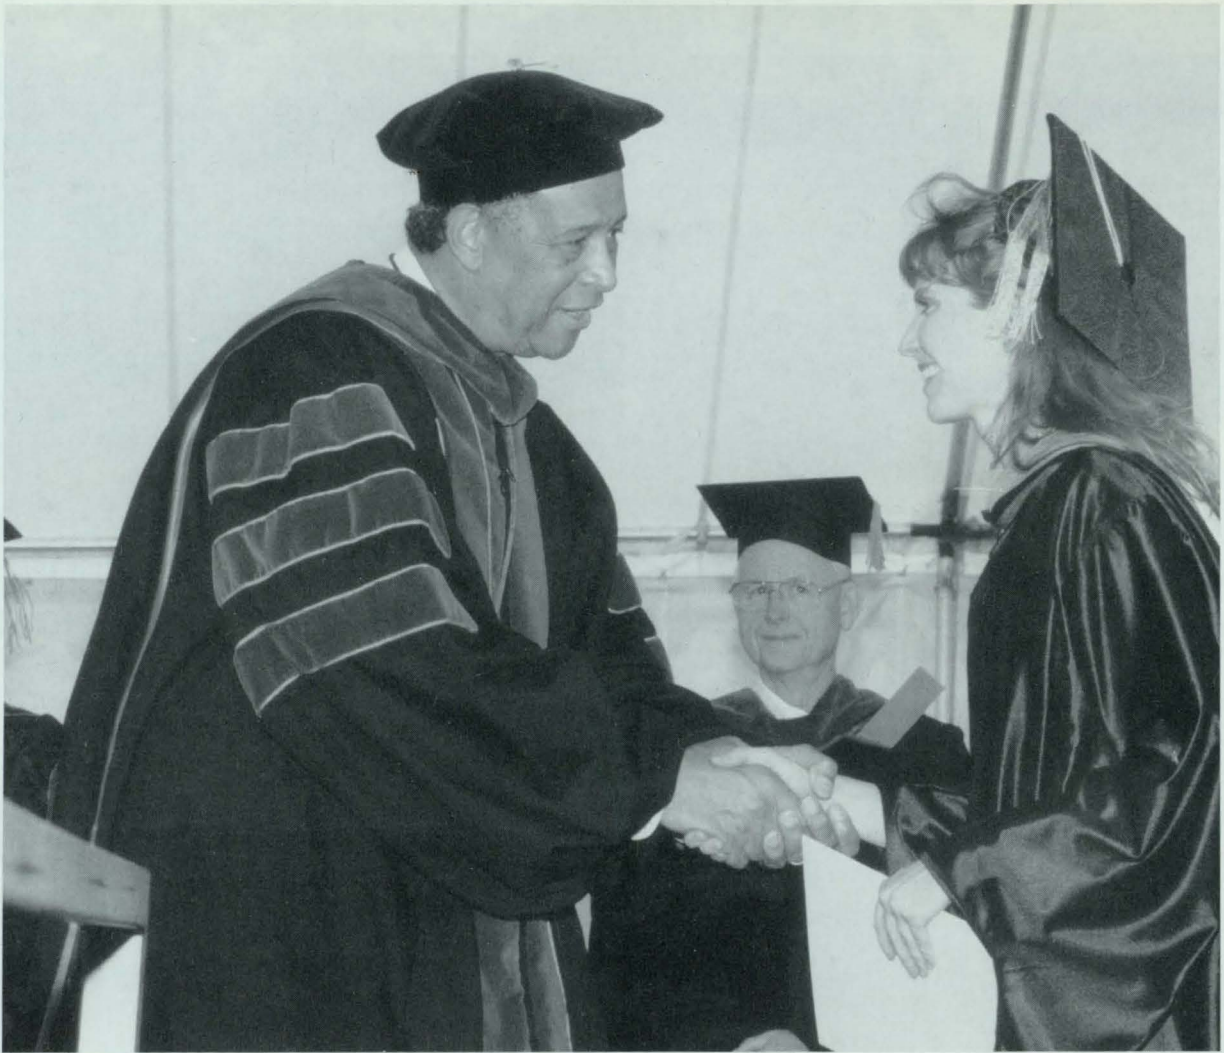

Sincerely,

Milton A. Gordon
President

Associated Students President

As President of the Associated Students, Inc. it is my pleasure to congratulate you on earning your degree from Cal State Fullerton. Being a fellow classmate I realize the pressures and hard work you have had to endure in order to achieve this most honored accomplishment.

In the past few years you have studied, explored, grown, matured, and met many objectives in your academic career. You have also contributed to the educational foundation of this institution by testing concepts and theories in your classwork, participating in campus groups and interacting with faculty and staff members through projects or campus jobs.

Throughout your academic struggles you have shown strength in discipline, dedication, and achievement. It is my hope that these qualities along with your personal experiences at Cal State Fullerton will aid you in your future endeavors.

Again, I extend to you my sincere congratulations and hope that success follows as you strive to reach many more career and personal goals.

Sincerely,

NATHAN ORME

(left) has been in charge of production of the Cal State Fullerton yearbook for the past two years. He will graduate with a B.A. in journalism in the Spring of 1998, after which he hopes to go to work as a reporter for a major newspaper or magazine.

In his two years working for the CSUF yearbook, Nathan has done several things related to the production of the book: organization, writing, photography and layout. His favorite part of the job was the ability to be creative with layout design and the chance to come in contact with many people all over campus. This is his last year working on the yearbook.

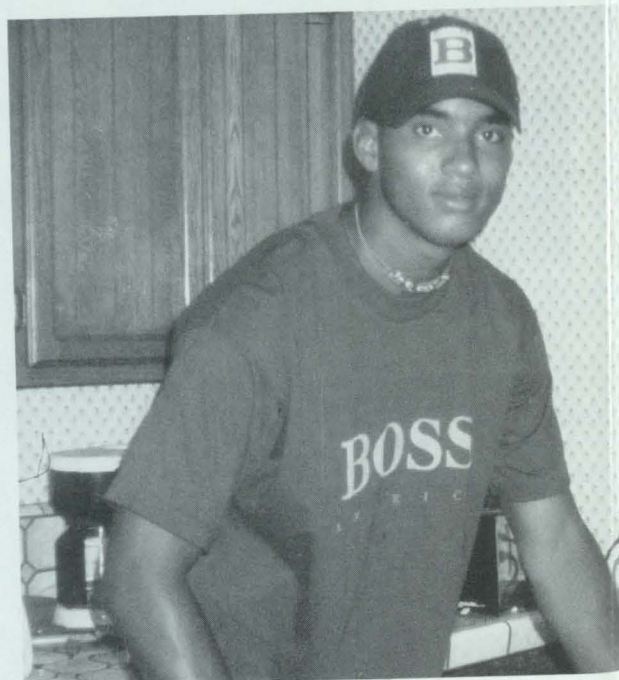

Besides working on the yearbook, Nathan also works for the Daily Titan campus newspaper, is involved with President's Scholars and Student Alumni Association and works in the Titan Student Union.

DAMIEN BROWN

(right) spent his last semester at Cal State Fullerton working on the yearbook. In his time at Fullerton, he was a standout on the successful men's soccer team and this year helped organize Communications Week. He graduated in May with a B.A. in public relations.

Damien's contributions to this yearbook included spending many hours interviewing clubs, researching sports teams, writing copy and laying out pages. We thank him and wish him well in his new job in public relations with the Anaheim Splash.

THE STAFF

has been the staff advisor on the yearbook for the past two years, and is the Assistant Director of Alumni Relations. She is a graduate of Cal State Fullerton (B.A. Comparative Literature, 1995) and is currently pursuing her master's degree in public administration.

Thanks to all who helped us

FROM THE EDITOR: MEL, I WANT TO THANK YOU FOR THE GREAT EXPERIENCE AND THE GREAT FUN I HAVE HAD WORKING FOR YOU THESE PAST TWO YEARS. I COULDN'T HAVE ASKED FOR A BETTER BOSS OR A BETTER FRIEND WITH WHOM TO GO THROUGH THIS YEARBOOK ORDEAL. IF WE EVER SPEND OUR ENTIRE SPRING BREAK TOGETHER AGAIN, LET'S MAKE SURE WE SPEND IT IN A PLACE WITH LOTS OF WAVES AND SAND. -Noodles

- All the photographers and writers from the Daily Titan without whom there would have been nothing to fill many of our pages: Miguel Vasconcellos, James Meier, Erin Whiteside, Eric Santucci, Yukiko Fujisawa, Bryan Ventura.
- Mel Franks and the staff at Sports Media Relations for providing valuable statistics, information and photos about Titan athletic teams.
- Pat O'Donnell for providing many of the photographs of various campus events.
- Paula Selleck, Director of Media Relations, for loaning us pictures, keeping us informed of events and answering tons of questions.
- Joe Ochoa, whose artistic talents adorn the cover of this book.
- Roland Madrid, Public Affairs Student Assistant, for his graphic expertise in creating a cover page out of a drawing.
- Jim Volz for his photographs of CSUF's award winning theatre, and dance performances.
- Kathy and Stacey from Portraits by Kathy Inc. for photographing the class of '97, Commencement, and other events.
- Buzz Ponce, Carlos Mejia and Carol Cooper of Jostens, for being flexible with deadlines and reassuring through our shortcomings.
- Dash Perkins and the staff at Scholastic Advertising for acquiring ads from the surrounding community.
- Patricia Boggs, Director of Alumni Programs and Services for all of her encouragement and support.

Alumni Association Board of Directors

The mission of the Cal State Fullerton Alumni Association is to provide 120,000 CSUF alumni with services, benefits and opportunities for continued affiliation with the university community. By doing so, the Association encourages alumni to promote and support the image, activities and programs of the University. The 1996-97 Board of Directors consisted of 13 members and one young alumni representative.

In addition to hosting such events as Night of The Pachyderm for basketball and for baseball, the Association also dedicated a painting ("The Moment") to the Cal State Fullerton Library and awarded two $2,000 scholarships. The Board also presented a $200 cash award to an outstanding graduate student and an outstanding senior at the 1997 Convocation.

Alumni Association president Michael Eubanks unveils "The Moment," a painting depicting the Titan baseball team's NCAA championship victory in 1995. The painting was donated by the Association and hangs in the new Library South (above).
